NAMI Inspectors are required to inspect a Licensee's quality assurance program and documentation for conformance with the applicable program to which certifications are issued or in accordance with the participating program guidelines. In accordance with the NAMI Procedural Guide, Licensees are required to provide corrective actions within 15 days of receipt of the NAMI Inspection Summarization Report for major non-compliances and 30 days for minor non-compliances. During the inspection, the NAMI Inspector noted the following. If blank, no discrepancies were noted, and no further action is required.

Non-Compliance	Minor	Major

Thermal Certification Program (NFRC) Participants Only:

Licensees participating in the NAMI Thermal Certification Program are required to provide proof of insulating glass certification from an NFRC recognized entity, such as NAMI. Failure to maintain insulating glass certification or failure to provide proof of insulating glass certification from an NFRC recognized entity will result in the NAMI Inspector issuing a non-compliance. Non-compliances concerning NFRC certified products will be addressed in accordance with the NAMI Procedural Guidelines.

Does the Licensee participate in the NFRC Certification Program:

Proof of insulating glass certification on file with NAMI from a recognized NFRC entity:

Note: If "no" is indicated on the above line item, please send proof of insulating glass certification, as this is considered a non-compliance

Manufactured Housing Program Participants Only:

Licensees participating in the NAMI Manufactured Housing Certification Program are required to be inspected on a bi-annual basis. This program requires that during one of the required bi-annual inspections that a production line sample be selected and forwarded to an ISO/IEC 17025 accredited laboratory for testing to the applicable standards. Failure to complete the required production line testing, prior to the end of the calendar year, may result in all manufactured housing product certifications being rescinded and complete product re-testing may be required. During the inspection, the NAMI Inspector selected the following

NAMI Certification Number	Product Series Name	Expiration Date	Sample Selected	Labeling

Insulating Glass Certification Program Participants Only:

Licensees participating in the NAMI Insulating Glass Certification Program are required to have their products re-tested and certified every two (2) years. Please allow for sufficient re-testing time to prevent lapse in certification. Non-compliances concerning NFRC certified products will be addressed in accordance with the NAMI Procedural Guidelines.

NAMI Certification Number	Product Series Name	Expiration Date
